STEUBENVILLE, O., Nov. 12. — A countrywide search was begun today for six bandits who looted the post office here of $40,100 last night after binding and gagging Assistant Postmaster Charles Irwin, 54.

The loot included payroll money shipped to Steubenville from Pittsburgh by the Follansbee Steel Company to pay off men at the concern's Toronto, O., plant.

Police believe four of the bandits came here from Pittsburgh and were aided by two local men who apparently were familiar with the interior of the post office.

Irwin returned to the post office about 7:30 p. m. to dispose of some clerical work. As he entered the place, two of the robbers confronted him. Four others emerged from the mailing room.

The robbers quietly bound and gagged Irwin, then calmly began cracking the post office safe. Irwin said the safe was not opened until about 10 p. m. The robbers then left and an hour elapsed before Irwin freed himself and spread an alarm.

The robbers were daringly efficient, according to Irwin, strengthening the police theory that they came here from either Pittsburgh or some other large city.

Ordinarily there is no one in the post office from 6 p. m. Sunday until early Monday. Irwin's hands and feet were bound and a cloth was stuffed into his mouth. Two men stood guard over him while the others looted the safe.

Irwin said the six men wore masks.

Windows of the post office were covered with paper to keep the blue flash of the metal cutting torch from being seen from the outside.

From his position on the floor Irwin said he was able to see every movement the bandits made.

Registered mail pouches taken from the safe were opened with the acetone torch, Irwin said, and bundles of cash and valuable papers were stuffed into handbags.

The bandits left in an automobile.

Irwin's alarm was sounded two and one half hours after he walked into the post office.

Every available member of the police force responded.

As news of the robbery spread, a throng of several hundred persons surrounded the post office.

Descriptions of the robbers were flashed to surrounding cities and guards were placed on the highways.

Irwin said he heard the bandits say something about catching a train before they left.

Postal inspectors were notified of the robbery by Miss Edna Gilson, postmistress who recently succeeded her father, the late Richard F. Gilson.

Miss Gilson said that fortunately most of Saturday's receipts were placed in the bank. The Follansbee payroll, she said, arrived too late to be deposited.

Ziegfeld's first intimation of Ruby's desertion came with her telephone call. Ziegfeld said that he does not intend to protest to the Actors' Equity Association on Ruby's abrupt withdrawal from the cast.

STAY OF EXECUTION OPPOSED IN COURT

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 12. — A motion to dismiss the petition in error filed in the supreme court in an effort to stay the death sentence imposed upon Charles Hoppe, former chauffeur, for the murder of a 7-year-old Toledo girl, was filed today by Prosecutor Leroy Hunt of Toledo.

Hunt, in seeking dismissal of Hoppe's petition, contended there was no debatable constitutional question involved and that the court should affirm Hoppe's conviction.

The court will hear arguments on the motion Friday, and Hoppe, meanwhile, gets an automatic stay. Court proceedings thus far have saved the condemned man twice.

DEVASTATION OF MOUNT ETNA SLACKENS; DAMAGE PILES UP

CATANIA, SICILY, Nov. 12. — The devastating eruption of Mount Etna—which already has caused damage estimated at between 500,000,000 and 1,000,000,000 lire ($25,000,000 to $50,000,000)—has slowed to a trickle.

But even this slackening found volcanologists still unwilling to predict an end to the relentless surge of molten lava from the great pit, as they pointed out Etna was the most freakish of all volcanoes.

The lava force coming down the mountainside was less speedy and it was less incandescent. Only here and there this morning could be seen the glowing red fire in the black molten mass that spread along the channels.

The stream at Nuzziata and the nearby town of Nuzziata were almost stationary while the stream which destroyed Carrabba was moving slowly. The eruptive force at the crater's top also seemed to be considerably slower.

The destruction of Carrabba was a pitiful sight early Sunday.

The lava force moved relentlessly upon the village, which had been evacuated just as have most of the villages in the danger area. There was nothing left of the little village after the hot tide had rolled through the city. The correspondent watched the thick lava strike one building, crush it and pass on without a trace being left.

Two hundred persons were made homeless—adding to the thousands now homeless from the disaster.

Other villages still are endangered and the residents watch closely, asking always "Is it ended?"

The hamlet of Strada has been ordered, evacuated as the stream slowly is approaching that place.

The United Press correspondent visited the crater over Sunday, encountering hundreds of natives and many tourists encamped on the side of the mountain but well away from the course of the lava stream.

The lava was falling over a cascade of about 500 feet and as it swept down the mountain side there was a fantastic sight. It was a sight of splendor as the red glare went up along the entire course of some thirty kilometers.

One great danger was that the lava might overflow its present bed, break through the surrounding banks and spread into regions not already touched. The pressure on the sides is tremendous and authorities have warned these banks should be made stronger as some volcanologists predict that the inner rumblings of the great mountain will not completely cease for several weeks. One authority told the United Press that only about a third of the mountain's lava had been discharged thus far.

At the crater there are more than 100 different mouths, of varying size, from which the lava shoots up and starts descending down on the valley in four separate streams. The main stream, which has caused the most destruction, has waves which at times reach 100 feet in height.

This only is comparable to the great eruption of Mount Etna in 1669, the worst eruption in the treacherous volcano's history.

FEAR FORTY CHILDREN PERISHED IN FLAMES

MOSCOW, Nov. 12. — Many children, numbering possibly two score, were killed when a cinema house at Vronozh was burned, dispatches from Hrga, Latvia, said today.

The scenes were terrible. The children had gone to the little cinema house to watch a special children's matinee. They crowded the auditorium.

Suddenly fire started and the greatest confusion resulted. The shouts of the victims could be heard for several blocks.

Parents soon gathered in front of the theater and they greatly interfered with the escape of the children.

A complete check-up of the bodies recovered was impossible this morning.

LARGER NAVAL FORCE NEEDED SAYS COOLIDGE

More Cruisers Are Urged
By President In
Address

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. — Speaking at ceremonies held by the American Legion here last night in observance of the tenth anniversary of the armistice, President Coolidge deplored the lack of mutual understanding between the United States and Europe and stressed the need of additional cruisers to strengthen the American naval force.

"It is obvious that, eliminating all competition, world standards of defense require us to have more cruisers," the president said.

Again, having pointed out the inadequacy of the regular army, and calling attention to America's long coast, outlying possessions and foreign commerce and investments, Mr. Coolidge said:

"Having few fueling stations, we require ships of large tonnage, and having scarcely any merchant vessels capable of mounting five or six inch guns, it is obvious that, based on needs, we are entitled larger number of warships than nations having these advantages."

In concluding his allusion to the Washington conference, which reached an agreement for capital ships and airplane carriers, together with the maximum unit tonnage and maximum caliber of guns of cruisers, the president said:

"It no doubt, has some significance that foreign governments made agreements permitting that class of combat vessels in which we were superior but refused limitations in the class in which they were superior. We made altogether the heaviest sacrifice in scrapping work which was already in existence. That should forever remain not only a satisfaction to ourselves but a demonstration to others of our good faith in advocating the principle of limitations."

FURNACE MURDER PROBE CONTINUES

LAKE BLUFF, Ill., Nov. 12. — Although a coroner's jury verdict was that Elfrida Knaak "apparently died of self-inflicted burns," her family and State's Attorney A. V. Smith told the United Press today that investigation of the "furnace mystery" will continue until it is cleared up.

Members of the jury, before returning their verdict, asked the state's attorney if the suicide verdict would close the case. Smith told them it would not.

On the evidence presented, members of the jury said, they could turn in no other verdict. "We do not say this is suicide but what evidence was presented leaves us no other course," one juror said.

Miss Knaak, made and almost unconscious, was found in the Lake Bluff police station basement, with her hands, feet and head severely burned. She said she had inflicted the burns herself by thrusting her feet, arms and shoulder through the small door of a hot water furnace.

WORLD HAS ADOPTED METHOD TO ABOLISH WAR KELLOGG SAYS

Says Anti War Treaty
Given Approval Of
58 Nations

NEW YORK, Nov. 12. — One of three related methods of abolishing war has been adopted by the world with unprecedented enthusiasm, Secretary of State Kellogg told the World Alliance for International Friendship and a huge radio audience in a speech delivered here Armistice Day.

The secretary referred to the Kellogg-Briand anti-war treaty signed in Paris last September.

"Up to the present time," he said, "fifty-eight nations have either signed the treaty as original parties, or have adhered to it or have notified the department of state of their intention to adhere to this treaty and make it one of the principles of their national policy."

"I believe that this is the first time in history when any treaty has received the approval of so many nations of the world."

"The best way to abolish war as a means of settling international disputes, is to extend the field of arbitration to cover all jurisdictional questions, to negotiate treaties applying the principles of conciliation to all questions which do not come within the scope of arbitration and to pledge all nations of the world to condemn recourse to war, renounce it as an instrument of international policy and declare themselves in favor of the settlement of all controversies by pacific means. Thus may the illegality of war be established in the world as a principle of international law."

"There is one other means, and that is to inculcate into the minds of the people a peaceful attitude, teaching them that war is not only a barbarous means of settling disputes but one which has brought upon the world the greatest affliction, suffering and disaster."

Kellogg outlined the beginnings of the anti-war treaty and explained that it had been negotiated publicly so that all the world was aware of the progress of the negotiations. The result had been a world-wide demand from the people for the treaty.

FEAR FORTY CHILDREN PERISHED IN FLAMES

MOSCOW, Nov. 12.—Many children, numbering possibly two score, were killed when a cinema house at Vronzhny was burned, dispatches from Hrigo, Latvia, said today.

The scenes were terrible. The children had gone to the little cinema house to watch a special children's matinee. They crowded the auditorium.

Suddenly fire started and the greatest confusion resulted. The shouts of the victims could be heard for several blocks. Parents soon gathered in front of the theater and they greatly interfered with the escape of the children.

A complete check-up of the bodies recovered was impossible this morning.

FURNACE MURDER PROBE CONTINUES

LAKE BLUFF, Ill., Nov. 12.—Although a coroner's jury verdict was that Elfrida Knaak "apparently died of self inflicted burns," her family and State's Attorney A. V. Smith told the United Press today that investigation of the "furnace mystery" will continue until it is cleared up.

Members of the jury, before returning their verdict, asked the state's attorney if the suicide verdict would close the case. Smith told them it would not.

On the evidence presented, members of the jury said, they could turn in no other verdict. "We do not say this was suicide but what evidence was presented leaves us no other choice," one juror said.

Miss Knaak, nude and almost unconscious, was found in the Lake Bluff police station basement, with her hands, feet and head severely burned. She said she had inflicted the burns herself by thrusting her feet, arms and shoulder through the small door of a hot water furnace.

The budget commission will work over these figures which then go to the finance committee of the legislature for consideration before submission to the vote of the members.

WORLD HAS ADOPTED METHOD TO ABOLISH WAR KELLOGG SAYS

Says Anti War Treaty
Given Approval Of
58 Nations

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—One of three related methods of abolishing war has been adopted by the world with unprecedented enthusiasm, Secretary of State Kellogg told the World Alliance for International Friendship and a huge radio audience in a speech delivered here Armistice Day.

The secretary referred to the Kellogg-Briand anti-war treaty signed in Paris last September.

"Up to the present time," he said, "fifty-eight nations have either signed the treaty as original parties, or have adhered to it or have notified the department of state of their intention to adhere to this treaty and make it one of the principles of their national policy."

"I believe that this is the first time in history when any treaty has received the approval of so many nations of the world."

"The best way to abolish war as a means of settling international disputes, is to extend the field of arbitration to cover all jurisdictional questions, to negotiate treaties applying the principles of conciliation to all questions which do not come within the scope of arbitration and to pledge all nations of the world to condemn recourse to war, renounce it as an instrument of international policy and declare themselves in favor of the settlement of all controversies by pacific means. Thus may the illegality of war be established in the world as a principle of international law."

"There is no other means, and that is to inculcate into the minds of the people a peaceful attitude, teaching them that war is not only a barbarous means of settling disputes but one which has brought upon the world the greatest affliction, suffering and disaster."

Kellogg outlined the beginnings of the anti-war treaty and explained that it had been negotiated publicly so that all the world was aware of the progress of the negotiations. The result had been a world-wide demand from the people for the treaty.

A new school at the feeble minded institution at Columbus would take $120,000. A school at Orient is planned to cost $175,000 and an administration building $100,000.

Three new cottages at Lancaster would cost $175,000.

REPENTANCE THEME OF EVANGELIST AT NAZARENE CHURCH

Repentance was the theme of the sermon by the Rev. Mr. Sharp at the Nazarene Church Sunday evening.

"There are two kinds of sorrow," said the Rev. Mr. Sharp, "Godly sorrow and worldly sorrow. David in the old testament had Godly sorrow. Today we don't see real Godly sorrow for sin. You cannot drown tears. Worldly sorrow worketh death but Godly sorrow, life eternal."

"God gives every one a chance to repent." In speaking of repentance, the Rev. Mr. Sharp said, "Real repentance will make one careful in life. God never asks the impossible. When He lays down a law He expects us to keep it. Real repentance will bring about a clearing of yourselves. There is not much said these days about restitution, but it follows up true repentance. People don't like to repent and make wrongs right. Why? Jesus said 'Because their deeds are evil' they love darkness rather than light. People seem to have no fear of God. A Godly sorrow for sin makes one fear God. 'If you expect to get to Heaven you must repent. God said 'My spirit shall not always strive with man.' When God speaks why not repent? Now is your opportunity!"

Harry Fagan of Shelby, O., a blind musician played and sang at both morning and evening services. His message in song is well worth hearing. He will sing each evening. The public is invited to hear this gifted singer.

Services are held each evening at seven thirty.

The subject of sermon Monday evening will be, "The Fact of a Hell."

Frederick Stretcher, 47, and William Bond, 59, both of Clifton, attended the Ohio State-Iowa football game at Columbus, Saturday, as guests of their brothers, Messrs. Harold and Howard Jordan, who are students at Ohio State. IMMORTAL!

By sacrifice; through a "Baptism of Fire!"

An "Unknown" youth, had once more attained the lofty heights to which all secretly aspire, The glory of an immortal name!

In Arlington, 'neath an earthen mound, Where Valhalla's wraiths hath trod, His clay is one, with the hallowed ground, Whilst his soul communes with God!

And softly, the nebula of the skies, Casts its mystic glow above his grave; Angelic songs in harmony arise, O'er an unknown, heroic brave!

GOVERNOR DONAHEY WILL BE PRESIDENT OF INSURANCE CO.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 12.—Governor Vic Donahey will become president of the Motorists Mutual Insurance Company when he relinquishes the gubernatorial chair to Myers Y. Cooper on January 14, the United Press was reliably informed today.

The company was organized here last week and was incorporated by a group of men prominent in automobile club work and in various business enterprises.

Governor Donahey's connection with the company, while not officially verified, but persons interested in the new insurance company would not deny the report. The governor, himself, was out of the city.

The governor recently told newspapermen that upon leaving office he would engage in business. He declined, at the time, to say where he would locate and what venture he would follow.

Donahey retires after serving three consecutive terms as the state's chief executive. He was in Middleport and Pomeroy today, participating in the dedication of the new Ohio-West Virginia bridge.

RALPH COLE SPEAKS HERE AT ARMISTICE DAY HOME PROGRAM

Assurance that the state would repay the debt it owed their fathers for their service to this country in war, by the best care of the children, was given pupils of the O. S. and S. O. Home, by Col. Ralph D. Cole, Findlay, former congressman representing this district, at the Armistice Day ceremonies at the Home Monday morning.

An impressive service was held in the chapel, with Col. Cole's talk the main feature. Pupils and Home officials marched to the building and promptly at 11 o'clock everyone faced toward the east and held a minute's silence in memory of the war dead. Taps were sounded by cadets and the salute of the firing squad was heard echoing over McEwell Lake.

Col. Cole paid tribute to the part the fathers of the pupils paid in the defense of their country and the reverence to their memory held by the nation and state. He paid tribute to the soldiers of the Civil War, Spanish-American and World Wars.

"America the Beautiful" and Kipling's "Let Us Forget" were sung by the choir.

The Rev. W. H. Tilford, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, Xenia, pronounced the invocation and benediction and the Rev. L. A. Washburn, pastor of Trinity M. E. Church, this city, led in prayer.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

GREAT FEATS—But they that wait upon the Lord shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk, and not faint.—Isa. 40:31.

PROMOTING INTERNATIONAL GOODWILL

Prejudice is an enemy of goodwill. It is the result of misunderstanding and misunderstanding comes from unfortunate experience and training. We oppose the things we have been taught to dislike or the things about which we know very little. Children are born without prejudice. Therefore, our hope of establishing international goodwill rests with the children of the world. On the public school playgrounds in American cities descendants of the Pilgrim Fathers join in games with the sons and daughters of Europe and Asia. Children form friendships on the basis of personal value, regardless of nationality or economic wealth.

Educators know the formula whereby the spirit of friendship existing among children may be made to exist among nations. Perhaps we shall achieve that goodwill by fostering an international point of view among pupils in our schools and by preserving that point of view until they have reached maturity. The suggestion that every public school child in America correspond by mail with at least one pupil of his own age in a foreign country is a good one.

If we dislike things about which we do not know we will grow fond of the things which we understand. May our schools be an agency for promoting international understanding.

VAST FIELDS FOR PIONEERS

America has always been proud of its pioneers, but the pioneering business has changed. Foremost illustrations of the modern kind were given at a dinner in New York recently, when Henry Ford, Thomas A. Edison, Orville Wright, Charles M. Schwab, and a number besides, were honored as pioneers in American industry.

The old-time pioneer shouldered his axe and rifle, and started off in an emigrant wagon to brave the terrors of the wilderness, and live a life of the most intense labor.

The modern pioneer may do most of his work in his home town. Much modern pioneering work can be done anywhere. But it pre-supposes a person who is not satisfied with the knowledge that the world has, but believes that many more useful things can be found out by the inquiring mind and by devoted search. Our country is pretty well settled by now geographically, but there are vast unknown spaces of scientific and technical achievement yet to be filled.

DIGGING UNTIMELY GRAVES

The reverse of the old saying that men dig their graves with their teeth is presented by Dr. E. V. McCollum, professor of chemical hygiene, Johns Hopkins university. He asserted longevity, physical and mental alacrity, general well being and happiness can be had by proper diet. That is a sweeping claim.

But he is undoubtedly right when he says that the appetite alone is not a safe guide, citing that some appetites ask for immoderate quantities of tobacco, alcohol, sugar, habit-forming drugs. Experience teaches that some foods which are extremely palatable to the individual derange his digestion.

The trained dietitian has proved himself able to cure many illnesses and build up depleted strength. While he might not be able to bring about "general well being and happiness" in every case, it would be of value to anyone to consult one. Then, if the patient did not follow the advice received he would at least know what was wrong with him.

The Way of the World

By GROVE PATTERSON

WAR SECRET

A war secret, closely guarded during the great conflict, is common property now. It comes to public attention with the announcement that Dr. Edward G. Acheson, its originator, is giving science $25,000 as a prize fund.

The secret centered in the process of enabling American guns to shoot 20 per cent farther by spreading Acheson graphite over the inner surface. This graphite was softened marvelously in an electric furnace.

Isn't it queer how matter-of-fact a war secret can seem 10 years after the war?

WOMAN LEADS

Discerning persons admire the one who creates, the one who gives the world something new. In the field of artistic photography a woman is one of the principal creative characters. Best proof of this is that the National Arts club, of New York, revised its constitution to admit Henrietta Hudson, the first photographer ever welcomed into that exclusive organization.

Working in the comfort of her home at Bolton Landing, on Lake George, N. Y., without the facilities of an elaborate studio, Henrietta Hudson produces masterpieces of photographic art. Her work is welcomed in exhibition, in Vienna, London and Paris, as well as in New York.

COLOR PICTURES

Perhaps the greatest of Henrietta Hudson's achievements is the invention of direct-color printing of photographs. The accomplishments of this modern woman, including her unequalled landscapes, show the club-tired woman that she, too, can really do something worthwhile. Work is the method.

BLACK EYES

A Columbia university professor establishes himself as the friend of small boys with an urge to better their schoolmates. This professor has developed an electrical machine, which he told the American College of Physical Therapy will remove "black eyes." He says static electricity forces the tiny blood clots, which compose the "black eye," to dissolve. Professional pugilists should be eager to get this professor a permanent place in the Hall of Fame.

NEW YORK—Texas Gunan (who is to be tried by the government on an alleged prohibition violation, but who still is one of this pillar's numerous sweethearts) is home again, with her bracelets, ermines and lip rouge. At a play premiere she told listeners that the various states should replace capital punishment with a four weeks' sentence to Hollywood; and when she was asked to name her favorite song, she retorted: "The End of A Perfect D. Newsmanman Stuff

Peter J. Hoban, who is pappy to Walter Hoban, is an old newspaperman himself. For ever so many years he did politics on Philadelphia rags. Way back in the mid-McKinley era he was covering the state legislature at Harrisburg. Some chump was sitting in for the boss and wired Mr. Hoban like this: "Rush one thousand words on Pittsburgh Ripper bill. Maybe five hundred will do. Better keep it in two fifty. Never mind, don't send it."

Another

On another occasion, Papa Hoban went into the Middle West to cover two national conventions. Let us say that one was in Chicago and the other in Kansas City. After about a week in Chi Mr. Hoban had just enough dough to make the jump to K. C., and upon his arrival there he wired the office for funds. Nothing happened. He did some hawking and managed to get back to the shop. Then he barked at the M. E. and wanted to know why his demand for dough had gone unanswered. Said the Managing Editor: "I telegraphed the Kansas City Star to honor your draft for two hundred dollars."

Kellygrams

By FRED C. KELLY

Nothing is more difficult than to make human beings change their habits.

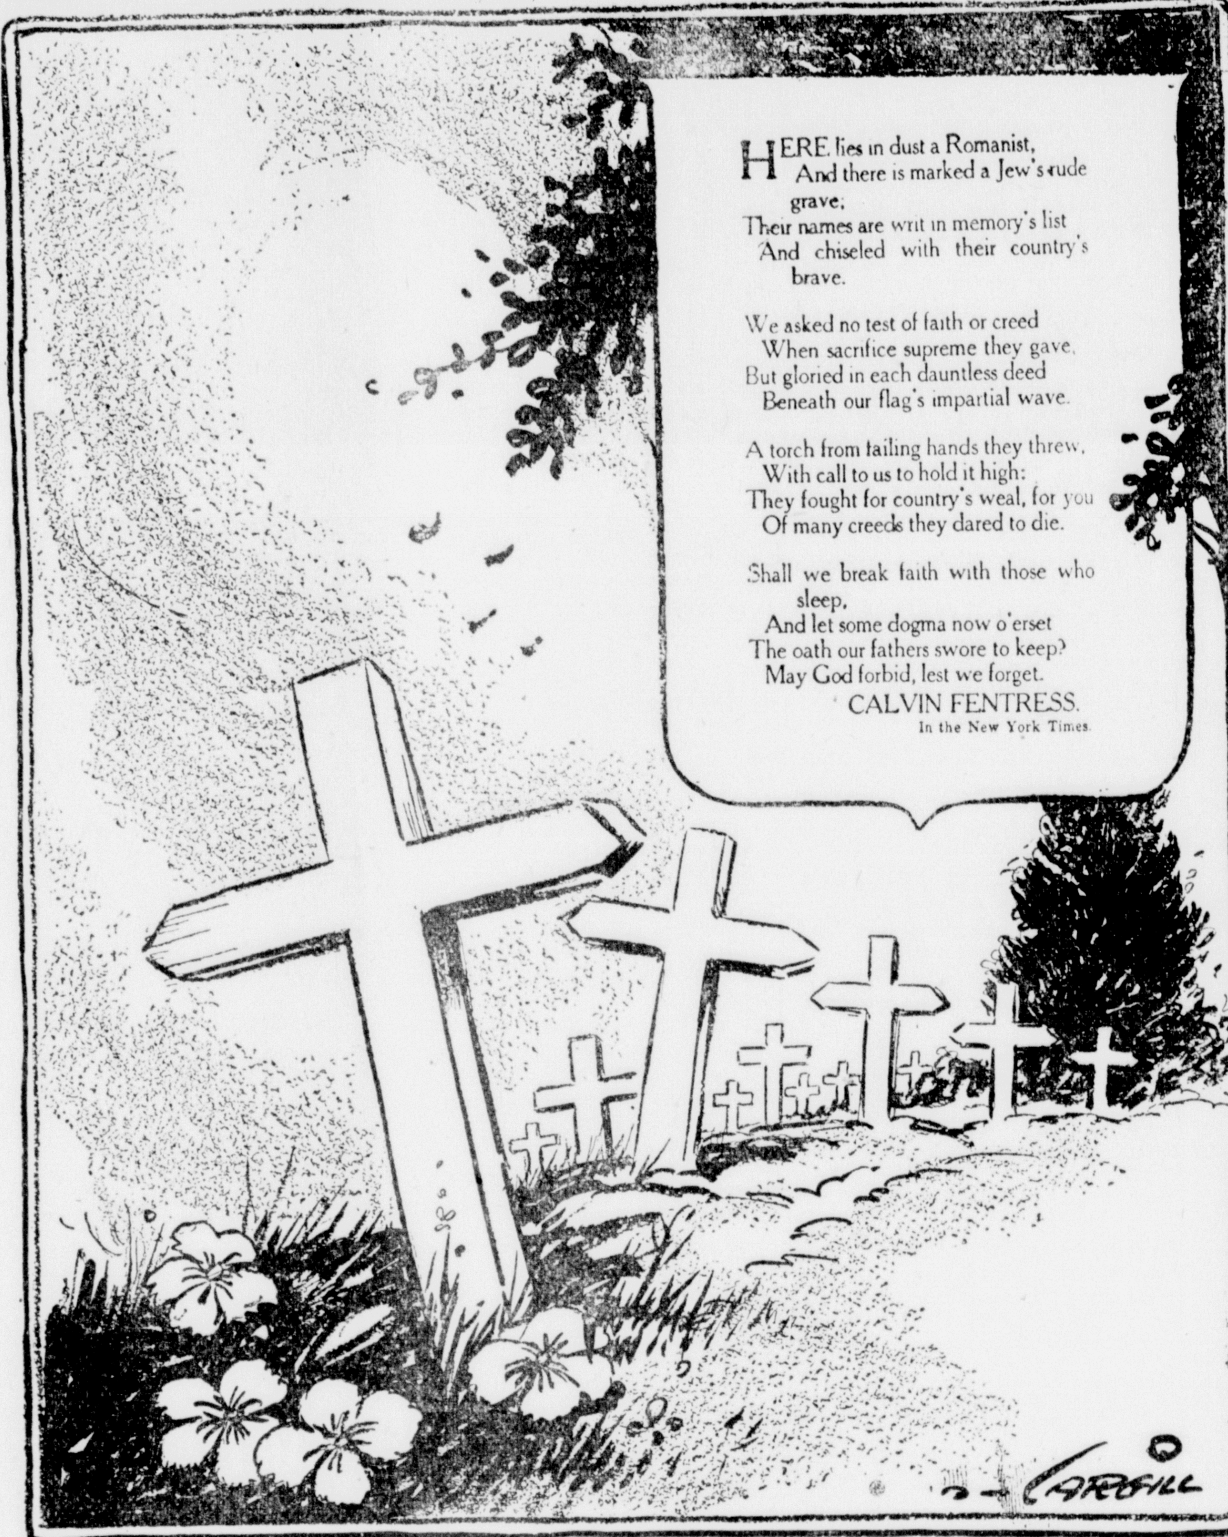

People in Paris nearly all close heavy iron shutters over their windows at night. This was a wise precaution in the days of the revolution, when nobody knew when trouble might break out. But today the only explanation is habit.

Everybody agrees that it is wise to brush one's teeth. Not to do so means much trouble and expense. Nearly every newspaper or magazine has advertisements telling the merits of this or that brand of tooth-cleansing preparation. Tooth brushes are to be had at a low price in every drug store. Yet, according to the best estimates obtainable by certain big advertising agencies, less than 20 per cent of the American people ever clean their teeth.

IN FLANDERS FIELD

HERE lies in dust a Romanist, And there is marked a Jew's rude grave. Their names are writ in memory's list And chiseled with their country's brave.

We asked no rest of faith or creed When sacrifice supreme they gave. But glared in each dauntless deed Beneath our flag's impartial wave.

A torch from taling hands they threw, With call to us to hold it high: They fought for country's weal, for you Of many creeds they dared to die.

Shall we break faith with those who sleep, And let some dogma now o'erset The oath our fathers swore to keep? May God forbid, lest we forget.

CALVIN FENTRESS, In the New York Times

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—Election out of the way, very soon the fight will be raging again over agricultural distress.

Not that any group in Washington is going to deny that agriculture is in acute distress. The difficulty will be to decide what ought to be done to relieve it.

In reality, everybody with a lick of sense knows what the matter is. However, it was the height of bad form to mention it, while the campaign was on. Both parties agreed on that. Now it is not quite so tactless to recognize various facts.

Manufacturing—except a few industries, which have not kept up with the times; commerce—except a few small traders who are being crowded out of business by chain stores; labor—except a few millions of workers whom modern machinery has deprived of jobs—

All these are vastly inflated. The industries get a great deal more for their products, the middlemen make far larger profits on their turnover, and labor draws much higher wages than any of them would receive, were it not for the tremendous pressure of "protection" keeps all of them stretched, economically speaking, skin tight.

Yet it stands to reason that some considerable element out of our population must remain uninflated and flabby in order that manufacturing, commerce and labor may benefit by inflation as they do.

That is, somebody must be left to pay the gas bill. What good would it do the manufacturer, for instance, to charge like sixty for his stuff, if he must pay correspondingly for everything he buys? His labor does come high. There must be someone he can squeeze who cannot squeeze him in return.

Just so with labor and the middleman.

If all are inflated, nobody is inflated—not to anybody's advantage at any rate. Inequality is essential—or inflation is a. z.

And, indeed, two groups of our people have remained uninflated to provide the manufacturer, the middleman and labor with gas.

The farmers and the white collar workers—these are the two. The farmers are sick of it. They demand inflation to the proportions of manufacturing, commerce and labor. Or else, they insist on the deflation of manufacturing, commerce and labor to agriculture's size.

Manufacturing, commerce and labor refuse to be deflated on any terms.

Labor, more liberal than manufacturing or commerce, is for permitting agriculture to inflate thus leaving the white collar folk to pay for all the gas.

Manufacturing and commerce fearful that the white collar crowd alone will prove literally unable to keep up the present supply, object. They argue that inflation, while all right for them, would be "economically unsound" for agriculture.

But—asks somebody—what about the white collar folk? And a downright silly question, too!

The white collar folk have no organization. Who cares for them?

This menu might be used for a Thanksgiving dinner if you are, for various reasons, dispensing with the time honored turkey. Chicken en casserole is well cooked and tender and is a most appetizing dish. Chicken a la king may be prepared and served from the casserole.

Today's Recipes

Lemon Meringue Pie—Measure five tablespoons cornstarch into a saucepan and blend with one and one-half cups boiling water, stirring constantly until the mixture thickens. Add the yolks of three eggs, beaten light with one and one-fourth cups sugar, half teaspoon salt, one tablespoon melted butter, juice of two and one-half lemons and the rind of one. Boil a minute or two and pour into the pie crust shell. Heat with a meringue made by beating the three egg whites stiff with a few drops of lemon juice and three tablespoons powdered sugar. Brown in the oven.

A small piece of sandpaper kept with the food chopper comes in handy when we want to screw it tightly to a slippery table. Slide the sandpaper under the chopper and screw down on it. It will prevent its skidding while in use.

Pumpkin Pie

(Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe.)

One cup stewed pumpkin, one teaspoon salt, one saltspoon mace, one cup boiling milk poured over mixture, one teaspoon cinnamon, two-thirds cup sugar, two eggs, well beaten. Line tin with crust, pour in mixture and bake in slow oven about one-half hour.

To correct a hollow back and strengthen the muscles of back, chest and waist, I can think of no better exercise than the adaptation of the old bicycle movements. Lie on a mat, arms stretched out over the head, knees bent on chest and left held up vertically. Work the legs in a rotary downward motion exactly as though you were on the trends of a bicycle.

Lie on the floor, arms spread out from the sides. Raise legs and hips from the floor and swing away up over your head.

Round shoulders, another common postural fault, may be corrected as follows: Lie flat down on the floor. Tuck your feet under a convenient piece of furniture to hold them down while you raise head and shoulders from the floor. Lower and repeat five to ten times.

Sit on the floor, legs extended straight in front, feet together. Grasp a wand with both hands—a yardstick or any similar short pole will do. Raise stick above your head and lower it behind your shoulders, bending the elbows.

Raise arms and bring stick down in front. Repeat 15 times.

BREAD IS GREATEST FACTOR IN CAUSING OVERWEIGHT

Bread and Overweight "How I love bread! I can eat as much as three slices at a meal and enjoy it. But I have cut it down to one slice a meal and in consequence have lost 14 pounds. I eat almost as I please otherwise. I never cared for potatoes or sweets, so it is not hard to deny myself these. I am having real fun in watching my weight go down! I used to suffer from heart burn and shortness of breath, but have felt not a bit of these since the first week I started to Petersize. I have a husband and two boys to help me. MRS. A."

Without doubt bread is one of the greatest offenders in causing overweight, for it is usually taken at every meal and with lots of butter. One slice of bread, one-half inch thick, is 100 C., and a level tablespoonful of butter is 100 C. See if you eat one-half at of butter and a full slice of bread, you get 150 C. By cutting out six slices of bread and butter, daily, you have cut out 900 C. by this deprivation alone. Other dietetic sins are the candies, rich dessert, and nuts. They are all so high in calories.

You get a better diet when you limit your breads (this includes everything made of flour, and cereals) for they leave an acid-ash, and taking much of them makes you eat less of the alkaline-ash foods—the fruits, vegetables and milk—which you need for bulk, vitamins and mineral elements. The gouty and rheumatic, if underweight, had better substitute potatoes for bread for potatoes are strongly alkaline after digestion.

Our instructions on reducing and gaining weight are contained in a pamphlet which those who are interested may have. We also have an article on Balanced Diet.

DO YOU DO THINGS WELL? WHY NOT BE A GOOD LOVER?

Appropos of nothing in particular why is it that in the course of a long life some people never learn how to do things well? Haven't you known them like that? As sure as a mistake is made you think of this one person and decide that he or she is the guilty party. Wasn't it Emerson who said that if a person could but make a good mouse trap the world would make tracks to his door?

Maybe this doesn't apply to my young friends who are troubled with that common malady of youth, love-sickness, but it would help a bit, would it not if they decided to be GOOD lovers, GOOD pals—GOOD sports?

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am a young lady 25 years old. I am engaged to a young man who is five years my junior. We are to be married Thanksgiving. He is kind and helpful, and as long as we have been engaged he has never kissed me. Does he really love me if he doesn't kiss me? Answer soon as possible, as Thanksgiving is near. G. G."

physicians in your locality, ring up the County Medical society and get a list. Select one and have your heart and your whole body examined. Your palpitations may be due to indigestion, gas, or to nervousness, or to some other remedied cause, or it may be of greater significance. At any rate, do not try to treat it yourself.

Burnine Tongue

Mr. L. has a burning tongue. What is the cause and can I get some advice?

A burning tongue may be caused by several things, among them infection of the mouth, too much smoking, and a predominantly acid-forming diet. It may also be one of the symptoms of scurvy, due to the lack of the anti-scurvy vitamin in the diet, or of pellagra, due to lack of vitamin and complete protein such as is found in flesh foods, milk, cheese and most nuts.

Only a physician who gave you a complete examination could tell you the cause of your trouble, Mr. L., and the treatment of the cause would probably remedy it.

Constipation

E.—If you have the ordinary constipation, see that you get one and one-half to two pounds of fruits and vegetables a day, and stop taking physics. So long as you continue to take them and have the wrong diet, you'll always be troubled. Take enemata while you are getting over the effect of the physics, for they bind you up for two or three days afterwards. If necessary, add a little bran, agar or psyllium seeds to your diet. Every day take some abdominal exercises and brisk walks.

We have an article on Constipation and one on exercises called the Abdominal Wall which will help you.

DESERTING THE DOVE-COTE

"Ooh! Ooh! Choo! Choo!" This time the stranger was certainly chuckling. "You would see me all right, boy. If only you would look in the right place. There are other places than the ground where one may find old friends. In the trees, for instance. Suppose you—"

Peter, however, did not wait for the sentence to be completed.

Right in the middle of the clover field grew a gnarled apple tree, and glancing up he saw a single bird in its highest branch the very fellow who had been speaking. Out of a soft puff of gray feathers peeped a smiling face. The second that Peter caught sight of that face he forgot to be cross.

"Why if it isn't dear old Dove!" cried he. "I ought to have known your voice anywhere, and I guess I should have if I had not been so sleepy. But I never expected to meet here! How did you happen to leave the dove-cote?"

At Peter's question the dove made an indignant sound that was half a sneeze and half a cough.

"That old dove-cote! I'd thank my feathers if I had never seen it. Ugh! You have no idea what an unpleasant place that dove-cote became to live in. True enough the paint on its outside is fresh and it was this that tempted us in the first place.

"Dolly and I were flying along last spring when we saw the little white house shining among the trees and it looked so white and pretty that we decided at once to leave it for the year. We ought to have known better, though! The rooms were stuffy the very first day that we moved in and they grew worse and worse.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

GREAT FEATS—But they that wait upon the Lord shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk, and not faint.—Isa. 40:31.

PROMOTING INTERNATIONAL GOODWILL

Prejudice is an enemy of goodwill. It is the result of misunderstanding and misunderstanding comes from unfortunate experience and training. We oppose the things we have been taught to dislike or the things about which we know very little.

Children are born without prejudice. Therefore, our hope of establishing international goodwill rests with the children of the world. On the public school playgrounds in American cities descendants of the Pilgrim Fathers join in games with the sons and daughters of Europe and Asia. Children form friendships on the basis of personal value, regardless of nationality or economic wealth.

Educators know the formula whereby the spirit of friendship existing among children may be made to exist among nations. Perhaps we shall achieve that goodwill by fostering an international point of view among pupils in our schools and by preserving that point of view until they have reached maturity. The suggestion that every public school child in America correspond by mail with at least one pupil of his own age in a foreign country is a good one.

If we dislike things about which we do not know we will grow fond of the things which we understand. May our schools be an agency for promoting international understanding.

VAST FIELDS FOR PIONEERS

America has always been proud of its pioneers, but the pioneering business has changed. Foremost illustrations of the modern kind were given at a dinner in New York recently, when Henry Ford, Thomas A. Edison, Orville Wright, Charles M. Schwab, and a number besides, were honored as pioneers in American industry.

The old-time pioneer shouldered his axe and rifle, and started off in an emigrant wagon to brave the terrors of the wilderness, and live a life of the most intense labor.

The modern pioneer may do most of his work in his home town. Much modern pioneering work can be done anywhere. But it presupposes a person who is not satisfied with the knowledge that the world has, but believes that many more useful things can be found out by the inquiring mind and by devoted search. Our country is pretty well settled by now geographically, but there are vast unknown spaces of scientific and technical achievement yet to be filled.

DIGGING UNTIMELY GRAVES

The reverse of the old saying that men dig their graves with their teeth is presented by Dr. E. V. McCollum, professor of chemical hygiene, Johns Hopkins university. He asserted longevity, physical and mental alacrity, general well being and happiness can be had by proper diet. That is a sweeping claim.

But he is undoubtedly right when he says that the appetite alone is not a safe guide, citing that some appetites ask for immoderate quantities of tobacco, alcohol, sugar, habit-forming drugs. Experience teaches that some foods which are extremely palatable to the individual derange his digestion.

The trained dietitian has proved himself able to cure many illnesses and build up depleted strength. While he might not be able to bring about "general well being and happiness" in every case, it would be of value to anyone to consult one. Then, if the patient did not follow the advice received he would at least know what was wrong with him.

WAR SECRET

A war secret, closely guarded during the great conflict, is common property now. It comes to public attention with the announcement that Dr. Edward G. Acheson, its originator, is giving science $25,000 as a prize fund.

The secret centered in the process of enabling American guns to shoot 20 per cent farther by spreading Acheson graphite over the inner surface. This graphite was softened marvelously in an electric furnace.

Isn't it queer how matter-of-fact a war secret can seem 10 years after the war?

WOMAN LEADS

Discerning persons admire the one who creates, the one who gives the world something new. In the field of artistic photography a woman is one of the principal creative characters. Best proof of this is that the National Arts club, of New York, revised its constitution to admit Henrietta Hudson, the first photographer ever welcomed into that exclusive organization.

Working in the comfort of her home at Bolton Landing, on Lake George, N. Y., without the facilities of an elaborate studio, Henrietta Hudson produces masterpieces of photographic art. Her work is welcomed in exhibition, in Vienna, London and Paris, as well as in New York.

COLOR PICTURES

Perhaps the greatest of Henrietta Hudson's achievements is the invention of direct-color printing of photographs. The accomplishments of this modern woman, including her unequalled landscapes, show the club-tired woman that she, too, can really do something worthwhile. Work is the method.

BLACK EYES

A Columbia university professor establishes himself as the friend of small boys with an urge to battle their schoolmates. This professor has developed an electrical machine, which he told the American College of Physical Therapy will remove "black eyes." He says static electricity forces the tiny blood clots, which compose the "black eye," to dissolve. Professional pugilists should be eager to get this professor a permanent place in the Hall of Fame of athletes.

NEW YORK—Texas Gunan (who is to be tried by the government on an alleged prohibition violation, but who still is one of this pillar's numerous sweethearts) is home again, with her bracelets, emeralds and lip rouge. At a play premiere she told listeners that the various states should replace capital punishment with a four weeks' sentence to Hollywood, and when she was asked to name her favorite song, she retorted: "The End Of A Perfect D. A."

Sevia Slane

The following highly engaging negro slang is lifted from "The Walls of Jericho." Frisample: "Ain't got 'em" means: possesses no virtues, is no good. . . . Ask for: Challenge to battle in terms that don't mean maybe. . . . Chorat: A chorus man. . . . A play is a white person who mingles with blacks. . . . Put it in the chair means to sit down. . . . Mr. Charlie or Miss Anne is a "swell" white. "Don't get too previous, brother," is a thrust at people who are premature, presumptuous. "Put it on one," to injure one deliberately. Red hot something that is extremely striking. A "shout" is a ball, a prom. . . . Stuff means hokum, baloney, banana oil, frisample: "They tell me that sheba tried to commit suicide over her daddy. Huh! That's a lot of stuff!" To be had is to be bested. . . . That's just too bad; means marvelous. . . . Upity is high hat; and Can't Say it is no complaint, everything is hunky-dory.

Newspaperman Stuff

Peter Hoban is an old news-paperyman himself. For ever so many years he did politics on Philadelphia rags. Way back in the mid-McKinley era he was covering the state Legislature at Harrisburg. Some clump was sitting in for the boss and wired Mr. Hoban like this: "Rush one thousand words on Pittsburgh Ripper bill. Maybe five hundred will do. Better keep it in two fifty. Never mind, don't send it."

Another

On another occasion, Papa Hoban went into the Middle West to cover two national conventions. Let us say that one was in Chicago and the other in Kansas City. After about a week in Chi Mr. Hoban had just enough dough to make the jump to K. C., and upon his arrival there he wired the office for funds. Nothing happened. He did some borrowing and managed to get back to the shop. Then he barked at the M. E. and wanted to know why his demand for dough had gone unmaneuvered. Said the Managing Editor: "I telegraphed the Kansas City Star to honor your draft for two hundred dollars." "No kiddin'," said Mr. Hoban. "but why the hell did you keep that fact a secret from me?"

Kellygrams

Nothing is more difficult than to make human beings change their habits.

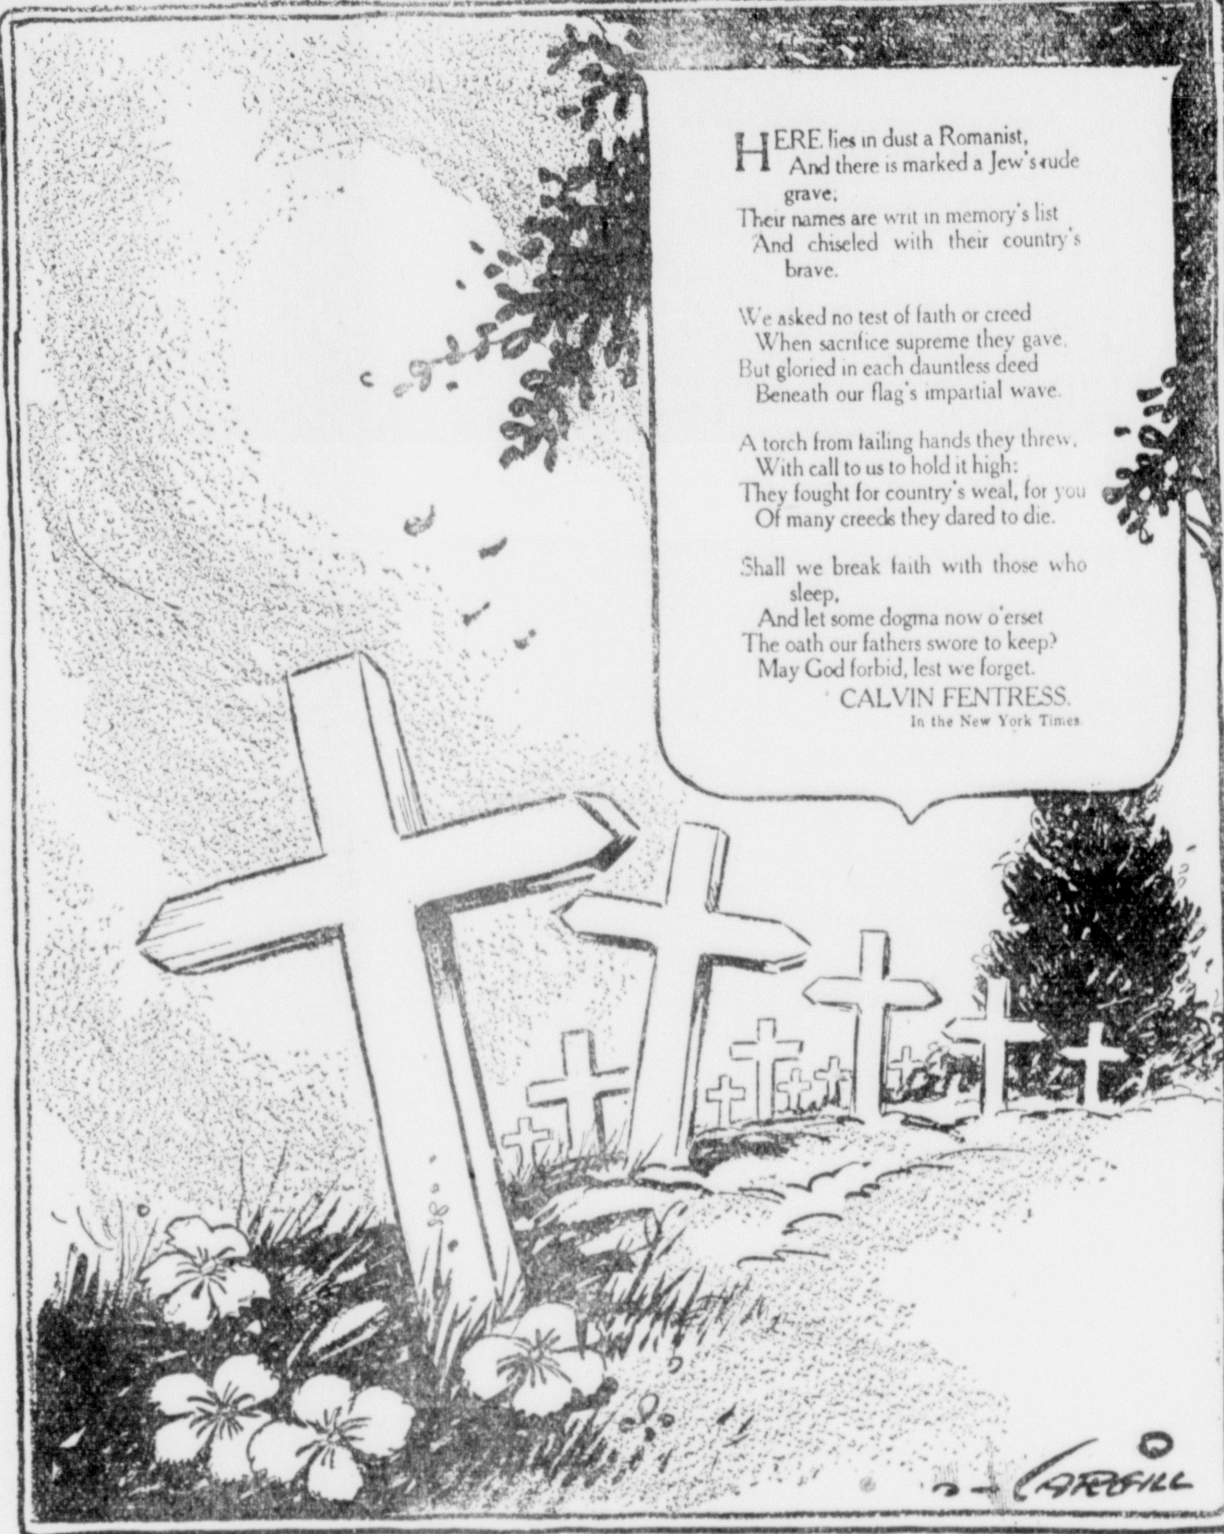

People in Paris nearly all close heavy iron shutters over their windows at night. This was a wise precaution in the days of the revolution, when nobody knew when trouble might break out. But today the only explanation is habit.

Everybody agrees that it is wise to brush one's teeth. Not to do so means much trouble and expense. Nearly every newspaper or magazine has advertisements telling the merits of this or that brand of tooth-cleansing preparation. Tooth brushes are to be had at a low price in every drug store. Yet, according to the best estimates obtainable by certain big advertising agencies, less than 20 per cent of the American people ever clean their teeth.

IN FLANDERS FIELD

HERE lies in dust a Romanist,
And there is marked a Jew's rude grave.
Their names are writ in memory's list
And chiseled with their country's brave.

We asked no test of faith or creed
When sacrifice supreme they gave.
But glared in each dauntless deed
Beneath our flag's impartial wave.

A torch from failing hands they threw,
With call to us to hold it high:
They fought for country's weal, for you
Of many creeds they dared to die.

Shall we break faith with those who sleep,
And let some dogma now o'er-set
The oath our fathers swore to keep?
May God forbid, lest we forget.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—Election out of the way, very soon the fight will be raging again over agricultural distress.

Not that any group in Washington is going to deny that agriculture is in acute distress. The difficulty will be to decide what ought to be done to relieve it.

In reality, everybody with a lick of sense knows what the matter is.

However, it was the height of bad form to mention it, while the campaign was on. Both parties agreed on that. Now it is not quite so tactless to recognize various facts.

Manufacturing—except a few industries, which have not kept up with the times; commerce—except a few small traders who are being crowded out of business by chain stores; labor—except a few millions of workers whom modern machinery has deprived of jobs.

All these are vastly inflated. The industries get a great deal more for their products, the middlemen make far larger profits on their turnover, and labor draws much higher wages than any of them would receive, were it not for the tremendous pressure of "protection" gas keeps all of them stretched, economically speaking, skin tight.

Yet it stands to reason that some considerable element out of our population must remain uninflated and flabby in order that manufacturing, commerce and labor may benefit by inflation as they do.

That is, somebody must be left to pay the gas bill.

What good would it do the manufacturer, for instance, to charge like sixty for his stuff, if he must pay correspondingly for everything he buys? His labor does come high. There must be someone he can squeeze who cannot squeeze him in return.

Just so with labor and the middleman.

If all are inflated, nobody is inflated—not to anybody's advantage at any rate. Inequality is essential—or inflation is a. z.

And, indeed, two groups of our people have remained uninflated to provide the manufacturer, the middleman and labor with gas.

The farmers and the white collar workers—these are the two.

The farmers are sick of it. They demand inflation to the properties of manufacturing, commerce and labor. Or else, they insist on the deflation of manufacturing, commerce and labor to agriculture's size.

Manufacturing, commerce and labor refuse to be deflated on any terms.

Labor, more liberal than manufacturing or commerce, is for permitting agriculture to inflate thus leaving the white collar folk to pay for all the gas.

Manufacturing and commerce fear that the white collar crowd alone will prove literally unable to keep up the present supply, object. They argue that inflation, while all right for them, would be "economically unsound" for agriculture.

But—asks somebody—what about the white collar folk?

And a downright silly question. The white collar folk have no organization. Who cares for them?

"RED" ANDERSON LEADS ATTACK THAT OVERWHELM MS DAYTONIANS

Four Touchdowns And Field Goal Piled Up By Locals; Chevrolet Line Rushes Visiting Kickers For Scoring Chances.

L. ANG CHEVROLETS, local semi-pro eleven, won its second game in as many weeks when it defeated the strong T. and P. Cleaners of Dayton, 29 to 0 at Cincinnati Ave. Park Sunday afternoon.

Led by Joe "Red" Anderson, the local eleven scored four touchdowns and one field goal, counting in every period except the third when Dayton made its only threat at Xenia's goal.

Xenia's first score came in the first two minutes of play. Fred Smith kicked off for Xenia, Rex, Dayton back, received and was downed on his own fifteen-yard line. On the next play Dayton fumbled and Doak recovered for Langs on the visitors' fifteen-yard line. Anderson then went off right tackle for fifteen yards and a touchdown. Anderson's try for extra point was blocked.

Shortly after their first score Langs began a drive down the field from their own forty-five-yard line which, although not resulting in an immediate score, paved the way for a touchdown early in the second period. Taking the ball on its own forty-five-yard line Xenia made a first down on the T. and P. forty-five-yard line on three tries at the line. "Atlas" Smith made two yards through the line and Joe Anderson made another first down when he went off right tackle for eleven yards to the visitors twenty-three-yard line. Three thrusts at the line gained four yards and then Anderson circled left end for nine yards making it first down on Dayton's ten-yard line. H. Smith made two and Fred Smith and Seall each gained two. On last down Anderson was tackled on the one-yard line and the Cleaners took the ball as the period ended.

Harris, kicking for the visitors, was rushed and the ball went out of bounds on the Dayton twenty-yard line. Two tries at the line by H. Smith and Seall netted nine yards and Beals made it first down by going off tackle to the eight-yard line. Here Anderson went off right tackle for his second touchdown. Anderson kicked the extra point from placement.

Langs scored again in this period as a result of a T. and P. kicker being rushed. Smith kicked off to Carter who returned the oval to Dayton's twenty-yard line. Two line plays lost five yards and on third down Dayton punted the ball going out of bounds on the twenty-yard line. Anderson kicked the extra point from placement.

PUNTS AND PASSES

By PHIL FRAME

Old Man Upset still holds sway over the present football season. Weathering seven more major collegiate upsets Saturday, E. E. Boxwell, 215 N. Galloway St., still succeeded in correctly predicting the result of nineteen out of thirty games. He went wrong on nine games and two contests ended in a tie.

This gave him a percentage of 67.8. For the entire season to date, Xenia fans have picked eighty-six winners, thirty-seven losers and eleven games were tied for a grand percentage of .699.

When you stop to consider that practically every team that has laid claim to national recognition this season has eventually received its bumps from an underrated opponent, this percentage is extremely good.

Not a Saturday has passed but that between five and ten teams have been upset by teams less favored to win. In picking winners Saturday, Boxwell ran into such surprises as Iowa's 14 to 7 victory over Ohio State, Penn's 7 to 0 defeat of Harvard, Maryland's 6 to 0 defeat of Yale, Carnegie Tech's 13 to 0 defeat of Georgetown, Brown's 14 to 0 defeat of Dartmouth, Notre Dame's 12 to 6 defeat of Army, not to mention Ohio Wesleyan's 6 to 0 triumph over Syracuse.

Boxwell correctly picked the result of the following games: Minnesota beat Indiana, 21 to 12; Wisconsin beat Chicago, 25 to 0; Illinois beat Butler, 14 to 6; Akron beat Baldwin-Wallace, 52 to 6; Dayton beat Cincinnati, 25 to 6; Findlay beat DePue, 13 to 6; Wittenberg beat Denison, 16 to 6; Hiram beat Capital, 6 to 0; Mt. Union beat Ohio Northern, 12 to 0; Miami beat Oberlin, 18 to 0; Ochs U. beat Marietta, 40 to 0; St. Xavier beat Western Reserve, 7 to 0; Rio Grande beat Antioch, 59 to 0; Holy Cross beat Boston U., 13 to 3; Pittsburgh beat W. and J., 25 to 0; New York U. beat Alfred, 71 to 0; Princeton beat Washington and Lee, 25 to 12; Nebraska beat Oklahoma, 44 to 6; Wilberforce beat Kentucky, 25 to 0.

The Xenia fan went wrong on these games: Iowa beat Ohio State, 14 to 7; Northwestern beat Purdue, 7 to 6; Heidelberg beat Otterbein, 38 to 6; Pennsylvania beat Harvard, 7 to 9; Maryland beat Yale, 6 to 0; Carnegie Tech beat Georgetown, 13 to 0; Brown beat Dartmouth, 14 to 0; Notre Dame beat Army, 12 to 6; Ohio Wesleyan beat Syracuse, 6 to 0.

These games were tied: Wexner, 0; Case, 0; Michigan, 6; Navy, 6.

GREENE COUNTY GRID TEAMS IN SLUMP

Cedarville College possesses the best offensive record and Wilberforce University the best defensive record of the three Greene County College football teams to date this season.

Wilberforce has won two games, lost one and tied three, piling up twenty-nine points to opponents' twenty in six games.

Cedarville's "Yellow-Jackets" have won only one game, lost six and tied none, scoring seventy-eight points to a total of 178 for opponents in seven contests. The lone victory was over Antioch College's Division "B" team.

Antioch College called it quits for the season when the Division "B" team lost to Rio Grande College 59 to 0 Saturday. Between them, the Division "A" and "B" teams won one game and lost five, scoring thirty-one points to 204 for opposing teams.

Division "B" failed to win a game or score a single point in three contests. Division "A" won one game and lost two. This division scored all of its points in one game when Cedarville College was beaten 31 to 6.

WILBERFORCE BEATS KENTUCKY STATE COLLEGE 29-0 SATURDAY

Wilberforce University's fickle football season took a turn for the better Saturday afternoon when the "Force" won its second game by defeating Kentucky State College 29 to 0 at Frankfort, Ky.

The victory gave Wilberforce a record of two victories, one defeat and three ties this season.

Wilberforce will dedicate its new athletic field next Saturday afternoon in the homecoming game with Virginia Union University, of Richmond, Va. Between 5,000 and 7,000 people are expected to see the game, which will be the first in history between the two schools.

Elaborate preparations are being made for the entertainment of followers of both teams this weekend at the dedication exercises.

PIQUA HAS BEST CHANCE FOR MIAMI VALLEY LEAGUE TITLE

Following a 27 to 6 defeat inflicted upon luckless Miamiburg High Saturday afternoon, Piqua High School became an outstanding favorite to win the first football championship to be awarded in the Miami Valley High School League.

With three victories and one scoreless tie to its credit, only Troy High School, to be met in a Thanksgiving Day classic, remains between Piqua and the league title.

Xenia is also undefeated in the league, having won two games and tied two, but because of having played one more tie game than Piqua, is eliminated from championship consideration unless Troy can tie or beat Piqua Thanksgiving Day.

Xenia also has one more obstacle in its path, which must be hurdled in order to have an outside chance for the championship. That obstacle is Sidney High, to be played next Friday on the Sidney gridiron. Sidney will not be a set-up, having won one game, lost one and tied one.

Miamisburg gave Piqua a battle

CENTRAL INSPIRED BY REVENGE MOTIVE FOR SIDNEY FRACAS

Defeat in 1922 Needs Cleaning Up By Buccaneers

Xenia Central High "Buccaneers" began laying plans this week for their final objective in the Miami Valley High School League—the game with Sidney High on Sidney's gridiron Friday afternoon.

"Revenge!" That is the one-word motif of practice workouts this week.

Xenia and Sidney have battled it out on the gridiron only once in history and Friday's game will mark the renewal of football relations after a lapse of six years.

Sidney registered a 7 to 0 victory over Central in 1922, thereby spoiling Xenia's clean slate for that season. In 1922 Xenia, with "Puss" Burnger at the helm, experienced one of its best seasons on the gridiron, winning seven games, losing one to Sidney and playing one scoreless tie. The lone defeat by Sidney has rankled ever since and Friday the Buccaneers will have an opportunity to even up the old score.

Xenia should defeat Sidney, in fact, must defeat Sidney in order to retain any chance whatever of winning the football championship of the Miami Valley League this season.

Xenia and Piqua are both undefeated in the league with one more game remaining on the league schedule of both schools.

Ever, Central has played two tie games against Piqua's one, which mitigates against the Blue and White hope of the league title.

The situation narrows down to just this, Xenia must defeat Sidney and then hope and pray Troy High can either tie or defeat Piqua Thanksgiving Day.

After an unimpressive start this season, Xenia's football fortunes have taken a decided turn for the better. In seven games to date, Xenia has won three games, lost one and tied three, scoring forty-five points to opponents' twenty-five. This record indicates a fair offensive and a strong defensive team.

One contributing feature to Xenia's success has been the ability to avoid the injury jinx. Central's veteran backfield has been able to play throughout every game, a factor which has undoubtedly had much to do with the fine record compiled to date.

T. And P. Cleaners Cleaned By Langs 29 To 0 Sunday

"RED" ANDERSON LEADS ATTACK THAT OVERWHELS MS DAYTONIANS

Four Touchdowns And Field Goal Piled Up By Locals; Chevrolet Line Rushes Visiting Kickers For Scoring Chances.

By BOB ADAIR

ANG CHEVROLETS, local semi-pro eleven, won its second game in as many weeks when it defeated the strong T. and P. Cleaners of Dayton, 29 to 0 at Cincinnati Ave. Park Sunday afternoon.

Led by Joe "Red" Anderson, the local eleven scored four touchdowns and one field goal, counting in every period except the third when Dayton made its only threat at Xenia's goal.

Xenia's first score came in the first two minutes of play. Fred Smith kicked off for Xenia, Rex, Dayton back, received and was downed on his own fifteen-yard line. On the next play Dayton fumbled and Doak recovered for Langs on the visitors' fifteen-yard line. Anderson then went off right tackle for fifteen yards and a touchdown. Anderson's try for extra point was blocked.

Shortly after their first score Langs began a drive down the field from their own forty-five-yard line which, although not resulting in an immediate score, paved the way for a touchdown early in the second period. Taking the ball on its own forty-five-yard line Xenia made a first down on the T. and P. forty-five-yard line on three tries at the line. "Atlas" Smith made two yards through the line and Joe Anderson made another first down when he went off right tackle for eleven yards to the visitors twenty-three-yard line. Three thrusts at the line gained four yards and then Anderson circled left end for nine yards making it first down on Dayton's ten-yard line. H. Smith made two and Fred Smith and Seall each gained two. On last down Anderson was tackled on the one-yard line and the Cleaners took the ball as the period ended.

Harris, kicking for the visitors, was rushed and the ball went out of bounds on the Dayton twenty-yard line. Two tries at the line by H. Smith and Seall netted nine yards and Beals made it first down by going off tackle to the eighty-yard line. Here Anderson went off right tackle for his second touchdown. Anderson, here a pass, the extra point from placement.

Langs scored again in this period as a result of a T. and P. kicker being rushed. Smith kicked off to Carter who returned the oval to Dayton's twenty-yard line. Two line plays lost five yards and on third down Dayton punted, the ball going out of bounds on the twenty, about eight yards from where it was kicked. However, the Cleaners line held and the locals lost the ball on the twelve-yard line. Dayton failed to gain here and again its kicker was rushed and the punt went out of bounds on Dayton's twenty-eight-yard line. Beals made five yards through the line and Anderson gained eight making it first down on the visitors' fifteen-yard line. Here a pass, Anderson to Perrine, was good for the remaining distance. Try for extra point failed.

Starting in the second half the Cleaners began a drive that just fell short of scoring. Taking the ball on its own twenty-yard line the T. and P. outfit carried the oval to Xenia's twenty-yard mark in seven plays before losing the ball on downs. A pass, Carter to Harris, was good for thirty yards and first down. A five-yard penalty and three line plays netted another first down and then a pass, Carter to Fisher, gained twenty yards, making it Dayton's ball, first down on Xenia's twenty-yard line. The next four plays gained only eight yards and Xenia took the ball on its own eight-yard line. After this Dayton failed to get within Xenia's forty-yard line.

After an exchange of punts Langs took the ball on the Dayton forty as the fourth quarter opened. On the first play Joe Anderson got away for the longest run of the day when he took the ball on a reverse play and romped around and right end for forty yards and a touchdown. "Atlas" Smith placed the extra point.

Xenia's final score came in the closing minutes of the contest after a Dayton punt was blocked and the locals gained possession of the pig skin on the visitor's thirty-five-yard line. A line plunge by Beals for eight yards and a forward pass, Anderson to Beals, put the ball on the Dayton twenty-yard marker. Three plays failed to gain and with less than a minute to play, Langs elected to try a field goal. Standing on the twenty-eight-yard line and with the line holding perfectly, Joe Anderson booted a perfect place kick between the uprights. "Atlas" Smith held the ball for the kick.

Joe Anderson was probably the outstanding performer of the afternoon although the whole Xenia team displayed an excellent brand of football and certainly earned its victory. Halder was a giant in the line and consistently spilled Dayton backs for losses. Doak and Perrine at the ends played fine defensive games and supplied excellent interference on the offense. Leopold at center also played well. Residue Anderson in the backfield, Seall and the two Smiths, Fred and "Atlas" got off for nice gains and all tackled effectively.

The superior, all-around play of the Langs eleven is demonstrated by the fact Xenia registered eight first downs to only four for the visitors. Xenia tried five passes, completing four for an aggregate gain of fifty-two yards.

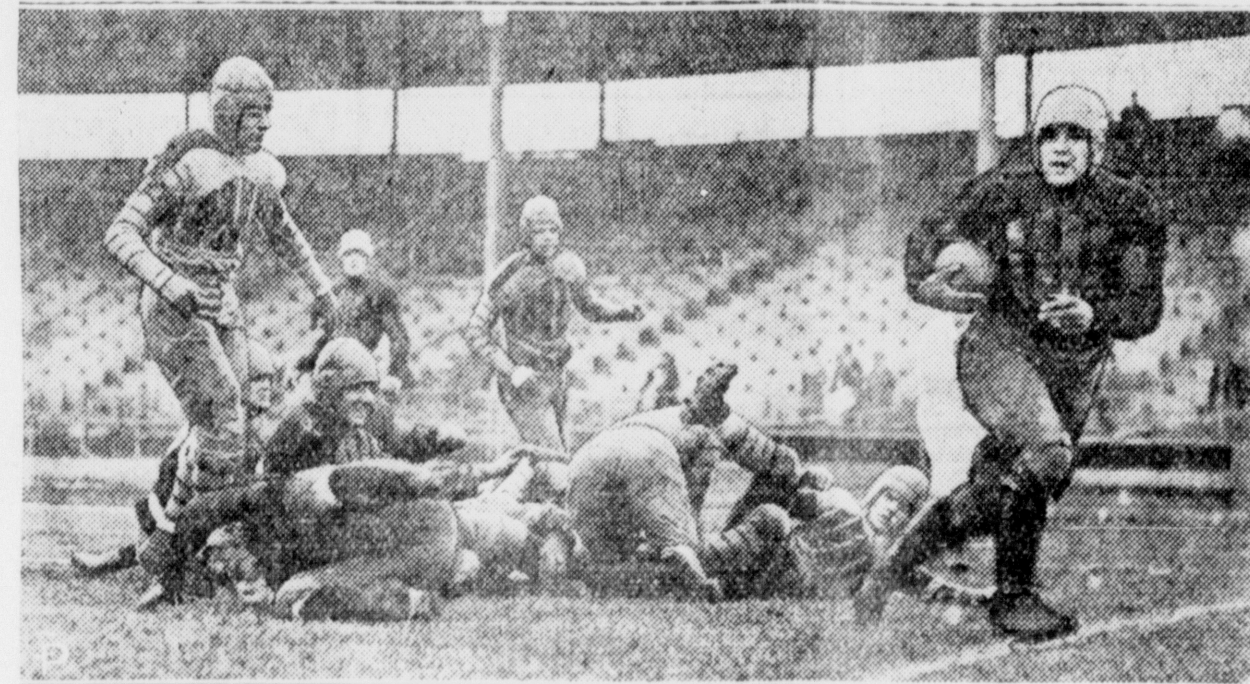

The Cleaners essayed fifteen passes. Two were intercepted, six were grounded and seven were completed for a total gain of 109 yards.

Fullback Carter and Irvin Fisher at end were the mainstays for the cleaner outfit. Fisher on the receiving end of some of Carter's passes was a constant menace to Xenia. Lineups and summary:

The victory gave Wilberforce a record of two victories, one defeat and three tie games this season.

Wilberforce will dedicate its new athletic field next Saturday afternoon in the homecoming game with Virginia Union University, of Richmond, Va. Between 5,000 and 7,000 people are expected to see the game, which will be the first in history between the two schools.

Elaborate preparations are being made for the entertainment of followers of both teams this weekend at the dedication exercises.

PIQUA HAS BEST CHANCE FOR MIAMI VALLEY LEAGUE TITLE

Following a 27 to 6 defeat inflicted upon luckless Miamiburg 15th Saturday afternoon, Piqua High School became an outstanding favorite to win the first football championship to be awarded in the Miami Valley High School League.

With three victories and one scoreless tie to its credit, only Troy High School, to be met in a Thanksgiving Day classic, remains in the race for the championship.

Xenia is also undefeated in the league, having won two games and tied two, but because of having played one more tie game than Piqua, is eliminated from championship consideration unless Troy can tie or beat Piqua Thanksgiving Day.

Xenia also has one more obstacle in its path, which must be hurdled in order to have an outside chance for the championship. That obstacle is Sidney High, to be played next Friday on the Sidney gridiron. Sidney will not be a set-up, having won one game, lost one and tied one.

CENTRAL INSPIRED BY REVENGE MOTIVE FOR SIDNEY FRACAS

Defeat in 1922 Needs Cleaning Up By Buccaneers

Xenia Central High "Buccaneers" began laying plans this week for their final objective in the Miami Valley High School League—the game with Sidney High on Sidney's gridiron Friday afternoon.

"Revenge!" That is the one-word motif of practice workouts this week.

Xenia and Sidney have battled it out on the gridiron only once in history and Friday's game will mark the renewal of football relations after a lapse of six years.

Sidney registered a 7 to 0 victory over Central in 1922, thereby spoiling Xenia's clean slate for that season. In 1922 Xenia, with "Puss" Burger at the helm, experienced one of its best seasons on the gridiron, winning seven games, losing one to Sidney and playing one scoreless tie. The lone defeat by Sidney has rankled ever since and Friday the Buccaneers will have an opportunity to even up the old score.

Xenia should defeat Sidney, in fact, must defeat Sidney in order to retain any chance whatever of winning the football championship of the Miami Valley League this season.

The situation narrows down to just this. Xenia must defeat Sidney and then hope and pray Troy High can either tie or defeat Piqua Thanksgiving Day.

After an unimpressive start this season, Xenia's football fortunes have taken a decided turn for the better. In seven games to date, Xenia has won three games, lost one and tied three, scoring forty-five points to opponents' twenty-five. This record indicates a fair offensive and a strong defensive team.

One contributing feature to Xenia's success on the gridiron this season has been the ability to avoid the injury jinx. Central's veteran backfield has been able to play throughout every game, a factor which has undoubtedly had much to do with the fine record compiled to date.

RIGHTS OF STATES SEEN VANISHING

By JAMES M. BECK

Congressman from Philadelphia (James Montgomery Beck was born at Philadelphia, Pa., July 9, 1861. Admitted to the bar in 1884, he was chosen United States attorney for the eastern district of Pennsylvania in 1885 to 1900, and assistant attorney general of the United States for the following three years. He was a member of two New York law firms from 1903 to 1921, when he was appointed solicitor general of the United States. Serving until 1925 he resumed his law practice and last year was elected to congress from Pennsylvania on the Republican ticket. He has written several books and is widely known as a public speaker.)

once the greatest forum for debates on constitutional questions, has now ceased to discuss the extent of its powers.

Is our constitution, under which we have grown so great, worth saving? Who will deny it?

Without it we would be a wholly centralized state, and with so great and varied a population and so diversified interests, the time would come that the American people would be as little content to be wholly ruled from Washington as the colonists were to be wholly ruled from Westminster hall.

The constitution cannot save itself. Only the American people can preserve it.

We must dedicate ourselves to this great duty, so that we may, in the language of the noble preamble, "secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity."

JAPANESE STORY IS PLOT OF COMBINED GLEE CLUB OFFERING

"Miss Cherry Blossom," or "A Maid of Tokyo," a musical comedy in three acts, is to be presented by the combined Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs of Xenia Central High School in Jean B. Elwell Auditorium Wednesday and Thursday nights at 8:00 o'clock.

Rehearsals for the production have been in charge of William Hugh Miller, musical director. Reserved seats will be available at Sohn's drug store beginning at 12 p. m. Tuesday.

The play concerns Miss Evelyn Barnes, an American girl, born in Japan, and whose parents died of fever, is brought up as a Japanese maiden. Her father's secretary uses her property for his own ends. When Evelyn, who is known as Cherry Blossom is about 18 years old, Worthington (the secretary) returns to Japan on his yacht with a party of American friends.

One of them, John Henry Smith, falls in love with Cherry and wishes to marry her. But Kokemo, who has brought her up as his own daughter, wants her to marry Togo, a rich politician. The action of the piece centers around Jack's effort to outwit Togo and Kokemo. Eventually Cherry learns her true identity, comes into her own property, marries Jack and all ends happily.

The Little Yellow House

By BEATRICE BURTON -- RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSN. ©1928

It came to Emmy suddenly that there was no one left in her life but him.

READ THIS FIRST:

The little yellow house never showed its true dinginess, because Mrs. Milburn refused to let anyone see it. Her love transformed it to a shining palace where sacrificing devotion made everything out of nothing. Emmy, the only daughter, weary of a hum drum street and Robb Hollis, the boy who lived there, and who had always loved her, excited by the attentions the wealthy man she worked for showered upon her, decides to rent a tiny apartment of her own where her employer, Wells Harbison, and her friends, can see her. Wells is anxious to meet Emmy's mother, and she decides reluctantly to take him down to Flower Street.

Wells Harbison commences to make love to Emmy.

On payday Emmy is surprised to find a raise. She goes to the cashier, and he tells her it is for good spelling. Wells persuades her to take up music lessons.

Emmy rents a baby grand pianoforte at Wells' insistence. He tells her she can pay him back when she becomes a great singer.

Mrs. Milburn tells Emmy she will never be a great singer. The music teacher told her mother she was quite a shock to Emmy.

Wells fascinates Emmy. She is fairly overwhelmed with the expensive gifts he is sending her, hicken and

"I've let things slip and slide. I should have kept after Marianna and the other girls until they did come, and I should have had Wells Harbison meet them so that he'd know I'm 'folks,' even if I do do typewriting and filing for a living in his office," she scolded herself. It flashed through her mind that there was more to the Life Ideal than just breaking away from your family and going to live by your own lonesome. You had to make your own life and your own pleasures. You had to go out and gather in your riches.

after he had gone traipsing down to Burkhardt's Drug Store on a night like this, just to telephone her.

"I might at least have said 'Hello' to him when he's so good to Mother," she told herself.

But she forgot all about him a few minutes later, when the sound of Harbison's taxicab coming to a stop in the street below came up to her. He had not even stopped to get his own car, Emmy knew, leaning out of the window to watch him pay his driver and come hurrying across the sidewalk.

His quick step sounded upon the stairs. His knock was loud upon the panels of her door. Emmy knew how eager he was to see her before she saw his face.

"But you said you were going to be tied up all evening," she greeted him, her eyes shining like jewels in the lamp-lit room. She took his hat and his came from him and hung them up.

"Yes, but I didn't know I was going to be bored the way I was," he laughed, facing her, his hand behind his broad back. "I sat there for what seemed like centuries in that hotel dining room, trying to be polite, and wondering all the while how soon I could break away—and come here to you."

"I can't imagine that!" Emmy answered quickly. "I thought men liked to get away by themselves sometimes to talk about wood pulp and nine holes of golf and how to make the most money in the shortest time, and so on."

"Do sit down. Here's your pipe—do you want your pipe, don't you?"—and here are the matches."

She felt as if she must keep on talking so as not to give him a chance to say anything sentimental or lover-like to her. Something in the way he was looking down at her told her that he was going to make love to her, and she was stricken with wild, unexpected panic at the mere thought.

She moved away from him and turned on the radio in the corner.

"The flowers that you sent me today are perfectly lovely," she hurried on to say, touching the fresh pink roses that stood in a glass vase on the gateleg table. "You are a most extravagant person, Wells Harbison, and I'm beginning to see how dreadful I am to take all the wonderful things that you give me. But I do love flowers and things—things that are beautiful—" Her words came in dry, brittle little fragments.

From the radio in the shadowy corner floated the opening bars of Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony." They seemed to spin out into the room like a web—a web made up of beauty and of magic.

But when it stopped ringing, as if it had got tired of pleading with her to answer, she was sorry she had hung up the receiver. She was sorry she had not talked to Robb.

RIGHTS OF STATES SEEN VANISHING

By JAMES M. BECK
Congressman from Philadelphia (James Montgomery Beck was born at Philadelphia, Pa., July 9, 1861. Admitted to the bar in 1884, he was chosen United States attorney for the eastern district of Pennsylvania from 1896 to 1900, and assistant attorney general of the United States for the following three years. He was a member of two New York law firms from 1903 to 1921, when he was appointed solicitor general of the United States. Serving until 1925 he resumed his law practice and last year was elected to congress from Pennsylvania on the Republican ticket. He has written several books and is widely known as a public speaker.)

Under the federal power to tax and appropriate money the reserved rights of the states are vanishing rapidly, and the states are selling their birthright for a mess of pottage.

And the general belief that the supreme power of the United States has plenary power to prevent violation of the constitution has lulled the American people into a false sense of security as to the maintenance of their constitution.

No constitution can endure unless the people have a real sense of what Grotius once called "constitutional morality," the self-restraint which accepts the wise limitations upon their powers. Unless they have the spirit to resist the abuses of government, any constitution will, sooner or later, become a scrap of paper. Moreover, if a constitution is to survive, there must be a correspondence between its philosophy and the moral instincts of the people.

If Franklin were to revisit the "glimpse of the moon" and ask himself whether the sun of the constitution were rising or setting, I think his invincible optimism would be sorely tried.

With our genius for specialization, the congressmen today says that the constitutionality of every doubtful law is for the supreme court to determine. The congress-

The Little Yellow House

By BEATRICE BURTON -- RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSN. © 1928

It came to Emmy suddenly that there was no one left in her life but him.

READ THIS FIRST:

The little yellow house never showed its true dinginess, because Mrs. Milburn refused to let anyone see it. Her love transformed it to a shining palace where sacrificing devotion made everything out of nothing. Emmy, the only daughter, weary of a hum drum street and Robb Hollis, the boy who lived there, and who had always loved her, excited by the attentions the wealthy man, she worked for, showered upon her, decides to rent a tiny apartment of her own, where her employer, Wells Harbison, and her friends, can see her. Wells is anxious to meet Emmy's mother, and she decides reluctantly to take him down to Flower Street.

Wells Harbison commences to make love to Emmy.

On payday Emmy is surprised to find a raise. She goes to the cashier and he tells her it is for good spelling. Wells persuades her to take up music lessons.

Emmy rents a baby grand pianoforte at Wells' insistence. He tells her she can pay him back when she becomes a great singer.

Mrs. Milburn tells Emmy she had for many years been a great singer. It is quite a shock to Emmy.

Wells fascinates Emmy. She is fairly overwhelmed with the expensive gifts he is sending her, hicken and turkeys.

The bell rang again.

"Let it ring," Emmy said aloud to her reflection in the toilet glass. "I don't want to talk to him, and I'm not going to."

But when it stopped ringing, as if it had got tired of pleading with her to answer, she was sorry she had hung up the receiver. She was sorry she had not talked to Robb.

CHILD SUGGUMBS TO BLOOD POISONING CAUSED BY BRUISE

Max Reigel Bogard, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Bogard, Jeffersonville Pike, east of Jamestown, died at Espey Hospital, this city, Monday morning at 7:50 o'clock, from blood poisoning in his leg, which developed from a bruise received while playing football a week ago Saturday.

The boy was with a playmate in a football game at his home when he received the slight injury. An abscess developed in his left leg near the knee a few days later and a violent case of blood poisoning ensued.

He was removed to the hospital where physicians were forced to open a hole in the bone of the leg and drain the poison. The operation failed to bring relief and the boy's life was despaired of from the first.

Max was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Bogard and was a pupil in the second grade in the Jamestown School.

Funeral services will be held at the residence Wednesday at 2 o'clock. The place of burial has not been decided.

CHRISTIAN WORKER, 79, SAYS KONJOLA GAVE NEW HEALTH

Thirty Years of Stomach Trouble Made Life Miserable; New Medicine Completely Banished That Ailment

Konjola does not limit its healing and soothing powers to any particular age or sex. Men and women in all walks of life report glorious relief from their health troubles. Young and old, people in the seventies and eighties and children in the tender age below ten years have been given the bloom of renewed life and health. It is a surprising fact, but Konjola is at the peak of its powers in cases that have defied every other medicine and are of years duration. Its thirty-two ingredients, twenty-two of which are the juices from roots and herbs, go directly to the ailing organs, soothing, strengthening and invigorating them to a more healthy, normal action. The manner in which Konjola works is described in detail by Mr. J. B. Everett, 100 Allison Ave., this city, who made the following statement to the Konjola Man at the Gallaher Drug Store, 33 East Main St., this city:

"As a Christian worker I wish to let all sufferers know about Konjola, the most remarkable medicine on the market today," said Mr. Everett. "I have given it a fair trial and have gained amazing relief after thirty years of suffering."

"When I say that for thirty years I suffered from stomach trouble I am not exaggerating the slightest bit. Day in and day out the various miseries of a disordered organ came over me. Meals no longer held any pleasure, they became a torture and merely a means for nourishment—getting very little, at that. I am seventy-nine years old and thought that possibly my age might be the reason why I did not get relief. I was unable to find anything that agreed with me. Quantities of gas formed and remained in my stomach for hours at a time. Severe, piercing pains centered in my back, sometimes becoming so bad that they fell as if someone were sticking knives into me. To say that I was discouraged is putting it mildly. I began losing hope and this helped to make my life hardly worth living."

"Konjola was recommended to me and I had heard a great deal about this medicine and its wonderful deeds of restoring lost health. I felt that I could not afford to let this chance for betterment slip by. I made up my mind to start on the treatment and that decision proved the wisest I could have made. Konjola turned out to be exactly what I always needed. It went to the very source of my ailments, strengthening and invigorating the diseased organs to a more healthy, normal action. My stomach retained and digested food better than in thirty years. I knew what to make of it. When I tried eating things that I never dared to touch before and they reacted perfectly, I knew that at last I was on the road to health. Today, after taking three bottles, there isn't a trace of stomach trouble. I eat and enjoy my meals just like other healthy people. The pains and gas bearing are ended. I am a new man, enjoying life and taking a keen interest in the daily activities. That is what Konjola has done for me and I know will do for others."

The Konjola Man is at the Gallaher Drug Store, Xenia, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this medicine. Adv.

SECOND ACTION FOR DAMAGES BASED ON CROSSING SMASH-UP

The Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis Railway Co. was made defendant in a second damage suit based on a grade crossing crash in Osborn East August 22 when Philip Froikin brought suit for $2,850 damages in Common Pleas Court Monday, alleging personal injuries sustained in the accident.

Recently Opal Bowes instituted action demanding $10,000 damages, charging that she suffered permanent injuries when the auto in which she, her husband, Arthur Bowes, and Froikin were riding was demolished by a cut of flat cars which was being backed slowly across the crossing on Xenia Drive.

Froikin was demonstrating a roadster and Mr. and Mrs. Bowes were prospective customers to purchase it, according to the petition.

Similar allegations of negligence are cited in the latest damage action in which it is claimed the crossing was unguarded except for an automatic flash signal which was not functioning properly at the time of the crash.

Froikin declares that his roadster, valued at $350 was wrecked. He also seeks to recover $2,500 for alleged personal injuries, asserting he was thrown out of the car and was bruised and injured internally. Morris D. Rice, Osborn, is attorney for the plaintiff.

BOOK CLUB FORMED ON ANNIVERSARY

The library is extending its fiftieth anniversary celebration Friday to include an evening meeting at which the "Friends of the Book Club" will hold its initial session.

The idea of such a club has been taking hold slowly, it is said. So often readers say to the librarian, "What do you know about this new book?" or "Who is this author, do you know her?" that the library decided there were a lot of people who like new books and would enjoy hearing and taking part in discussions about them.

The invitation is extended to all who would enjoy such a club to meet at the library at 8 p. m. November 16.

An interesting program has been planned for the Anniversary meeting.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

BOOK CLUB FORMED ON ANNIVERSARY

The library is extending its fiftieth anniversary celebration Friday to include an evening meeting at which the "Friends of the Book Club" will hold its initial session.

The idea of such a club has been taking hold slowly, it is said. So often readers say to the librarian, "What do you know about this new book?" or "Who is this author, do you know her?" that the library decided there were a lot of people who like new books and would enjoy hearing and taking part in discussions about them.

The invitation is extended to all who would enjoy such a club to meet at the library at 8 p. m. November 16.

An interesting program has been planned for the Anniversary meeting.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Holding Old Friends

THE telephone likes nothing better than being given the task of holding friendships. Distance always imperils ties, no matter how close. Letters help but we humans have a habit of putting off writing, sometimes too long.

Call that old friend today. It would be better than writing anyway because hearing your voice is the next thing to a visit in person. Out of town telephone service makes such contacts easy. There are no fussy preliminaries or delays in calling points near or far. You give the long distance operator the number, and usually, while you listen, the familiar voice comes on the line.

If you should not know the number Information has it for you. Just call her.
